Back To School-In A New Way

The Smackover-Norphlet School District 2015-2016 school year promises to be an exciting one with new programs, and even a new school, being implemented.

We reported on the STEM program and the new School-Based Health Center in our July issue. These are great additions to our school district!

Perhaps the biggest, and most anticipated, change is the opening of the new Norphlet Middle School, which will be located in the old Norphlet High School Building. David Wilcox, Superintendent, SNSD, says the outside of the building will remain the same, but the inside will be an entirely new school.

The project, which also includes an exterior building for STEM classrooms, has a price tag of close to two and a half millions dollars.

Plans are for each campus to have a K-5 Elementary school, which will be zoned. Grades 6-8 will attend the Norphlet Middle School, and grades 9-12 will attend the Smackover High School.

There will be a shuttle bus to take students arriving at either campus by bus or car to their respective schools. Dismissal times will be adjusted in order to transport the students to their designated pick up points in a timely manner. No home-going busses will depart until they have all of their assigned students from either out of town campus.

Mr. Wilcox complimented his staff by saying, "The Staff have been great, and have been flexible and willing to work through the changes." He added that they are all trying to get it as close to right as possible before beginning the new school year.

Challenges are sure to arise, but Mr. Wilcox is positive that the benefits afforded our children by the Middle School will far outweigh any inconveniences which may occur.
